Zimmerman Stresses Value of Road School in Address of Welcome

Madison—(AP)—Calling "reflection and charges" against the highway commission and attempts to abolish the road school, the opening session of which he was addressing, "dastardly political hokum," Governor Fred R. Zimmerman Monday took issue with alleged remarks, relating to the highway department, by the senior United States senator from Wisconsin. The governor's address of welcome to the road school delegates was heralded as a bombshell.

The governor endorsed the road school and its discussion of "proper facilities for the transportation and communication between the citizens" as "about as important a function as the state may engage in."

"If I needed additional evidence of the unworthiness of that proposal to abolish the road school, I could find it in large attendance your registration shows and earnestness and enthusiasm with which you have gathered to assist each other in solving the problem of road making," he said, "I have a feeling of pride in the fact that my veto made possible this splendid assembly."

Recalling the changes "made in personnel of the highway department a year ago," which he said "were laid directly at my door," Mr. Zimmerman declared:

"Even though I might like to take the credit for the changes, I was not responsible for them."

The desire to make political capital by injecting into the whole affair suggestions and charges reflecting upon the highway commission and its appointees was unworthy, to put it mildly, of intelligent men, and illustrated the spirit of maliciousness which, if it had been permitted to control the commission, would have destroyed its main aim and interfered extensively with the whole 1927 program of road-making which the governor considers a banner one.

He said this "attempt" to "put before the public as grafters all those earnestly engaged in legitimate work of highway construction, cannot be characterized by any less forceful word than 'dastardly'."

The governor quoted "from a speech made by senior senator at a secret political meeting in which everything was kept secret except this speech."

QUOTES FROM SPEECH

"Under the present administration the highway commission has been turned over to greedy private interests. No sooner was Governor Zimmerman installed than faithful officials were discharged. Agents of those who had huge financial interests in highway contracts were put in. Already a contract amounting to $200,000 is shown to have been awarded to these interests. As a result the highway commission has been discredited and its services crippled. The responsibility for this deplorable situation rests squarely on Governor Zimmerman."

The governor "left it" with the road school delegates, "whether the author is trying to discover the truth, or was 'willing notwithstanding his high position to make a bundle of false statements and accusations' regardless of their 'seriously interfering with the commission's work.'"

He said "luckily for the commission and its work, the public know 'as political hokum.' Had the public not so construed them, Governor Zimmerman said, the banner year of highway work would have 'given the lie to his statements.'"

LISTS ROAD COSTS

"You are led to believe," he said, "that the contract, which is approved by Milwaukee, is all velvet for the special interests. Out of that

DRUNKEN DRIVER HAS NARROW ESCAPE WHEN CAR LEAVES HIGHWAY

Missing's Plea of Buying Cattle Does No Good; Fined and Loses License

William Missing, town of Ellington, is Outagamie-co's first drunken driver in 1928. The Ellington man was fined $50 and costs by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Monday morning when he pleaded guilty. The usual order restraining him from driving his automobile for the next six months was issued. Judge Berg said he recommended to the secretary of state that Missing's driving license be revoked for the next six months.

Missing's arrest followed complaints from people living on Highway 41 just south of Little Chute Saturday afternoon. Officers from the sheriff's department were told a driver had crashed into the posts of a guard rail which protect motorists from the small creek at the foot of the Little Chute hill. When officers arrived they found an abandoned car and several minutes later Missing arrived with a wrecker from an Appleton garage to tow the car away. He was placed under arrest and taken to the county jail where he was held until Monday morning.

"I was out buying cattle, your honor," Missing told Judge Berg.

"Humph! Mighty funny cattle you bought," said the judge.

Six cedar posts, about six inches in diameter, were knocked down by Missing's car which narrowly avoided running into the creek. Missing continued his wild ride, his car finally stopping when he crashed into a post carrying a warning sign for the interurban street crossing. The car was badly damaged.

Judge Berg said Monday he had received special blanks from the state for making recommendations on the revocation of traffic law offenders' drivers licenses. The judge must report each time he punishes a violator for drunken driving, reckless driving or failure to stop after injuring a person.

HOUSTON MAN SWUNG PARTY MEET TO CITY

Newspaper Publisher, Banker, Realtor New Power in Democratic Ranks

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright 1928, Post Pub. Co.)

Washington—A new power has risen in the Democratic party—a powerful single-handed to win the choice of the city where the Democratic National convention is to be held with the spontaneous support of almost the entire national committee.

That power is Jesse H. Jones, publisher, newspaper publisher, banker, philanthropist—said to be the largest individual operator in city real estate in the country, owning outside, or in large part, hotel, office buildings, the stores, apartment houses in Houston, Fort Worth, Dallas and New York. In the last ten years, Mr. Jones has built between fifty and sixty million dollars' worth of property.

"How do you manage to get the convention for Houston?" the writer asked Mr. Jones. "Did you have many votes in advance?"

"I didn't have any votes. I didn't electorally at all. And that is what gratifies me. For the committee and committee-men just naturally took to the idea of selecting Houston."

Mr. Jones pointed out that most of the delegates from the north were traveling through the south on their way to and from the convention and that the south would be seen by many northern Democrats who are not familiar with what now has come to be known as the "new houth."

"PLENTY ACCOMMODATIONS"

"We will have plenty of accommodations for everybody," continued Mr. Jones. "The Gulf of Mexico is only 30 to 40 minutes away by motor and there will be plenty of rooms available in Galveston as well as on the Gulf coast where there are many summer homes that will be thrown open to visitors."

Jesse Jones is a tall, quiet-mannered man entirely unlike any other figure in national politics. He is a good-mannered individual with a faculty for making firm friends. And of his many benefactions and acts for the general welfare he is not the kind who tells anybody. For example, during the last four years the democratic party has had a large deficit which today amounts to about $200,000. It was Jesse Jones who persuaded the bankers to accept the notes of the national committee without endorsement. It is true he has been and is director of finance of the democratic national committee but that doesn't require him to underwrite the deficits of his party.

"Did you plan in advance to get the convention for Houston?" he was asked.

"No, I hadn't quite made up my mind before I saw," was the reply. "But when I saw the certified checks being handed in for San Francisco, I said to myself that Houston was big enough to have the convention and I just wrote my check for $200,000 and put it in my bag. I confess I was somewhat surprised at the support I received and am genuinely appreciative of it."

BELIEVE TWO DROWNED IN LAKE AT CAPITAL

Madison—(AP)—Maurice Field, 30, city attorney of St. Louis, and Mary Madeline Roberts, 11, Madison, were believed to have been drowned Sunday when Field's automobile broke through the ice on Lake Mendota.

The two were driving across the ice-covered lake to skate when the car suddenly broke through and disappeared. Field's car and hat appeared on the surface of the water in the break of the ice, but neither he nor the girl were seen afterwards.

CUBAN CHIEF WELCOMES CAL AND DELEGATES

President Machado Expresses Faith in Future as Result of Gathering

Havana—(AP)—Stressing idealism, fraternity and cooperation as the basis of American countries, General Gerardo Machado, president of Cuba, Monday welcomed President Coolidge and delegates from Latin-American countries to Cuba the sixth Pan-American conference. President Machado said:

"Intense is our joy and confidence in the future destinies of our hemisphere when, gaining over the half, adding brilliancy to this transcendental occasion, we behold the illustrious person of his excellency, Calvin Coolidge, chief executive of the greatest of all democracies, head of the great people whom Cuba had the honor of seeing at her side in her bloody struggle for independence."

"I offer to all of you the effusive welcome of the people of Cuba, whom I have the honor of representing on this solemn occasion. To your people I express fervent wishes for their prosperity and greatness and, to the chiefs of state, the prophecy that, as a product of this new gathering of all Americans, we may complete, during their incumbencies, that which constitutes our common aspiration, the rule of peace and justice."

"MUTUAL BROTHERHOOD"

"The representatives of the American republics are gathered once more with the practical purpose of the consolidation of a mutual, beneficial and in interests. The International American conference, initiated at Washington 29 years ago and continued at Mexico, Rio Janeiro, Buenos Aires and Santiago, Chile, aims to toil for the welfare and glory of this hemisphere, root of a new civilization and cradle of a new civilization."

"Cuba is proud of your presence in her capital for the celebration of such an extraordinary event. Regarding myself, I have never before felt such pleasure as I do in these solemn moments in which I behold myself, animated by the most cordial and conciliatory spirit, directs its efforts toward the approximation, development and strengthening of the spiritual and material bonds between states that have been destined for fraternal love by geography and history."

PLANES JOIN HUNT FOR GIRL'S SLAYER

Michigan Authorities Intensify Search for Murderer of Dorothy Schneider

Flint, Mich.—(AP)—Army airplanes, the Michigan State police and the authorities of the entire midwest Monday had joined in a systematic search for the man who kidnapped, slew and mutilated 5-year-old Dorothy Schneider near here last Thursday.

Three pursuit planes from Selfridge field flew over the section where the murderer may be hiding. The small creek north of here where the body was found was the scene of dragging operations Monday.

Collection and re-examination of all evidence in the case was another step planned by the Michigan State police, under the personal direction of Oscar Ohlander, state police commissioner.

Suspect arrested in Detroit, Buffalo, N. Y., Decatur, Ind., Grand Haven, Mich., and other cities, were released Sunday while state and city police, and members of the Genesee-co sheriff's force continued to check the scores of "tips" which have been sent to the general headquarters, established here under orders from Governor Fred W. Green.

A man known to have been killed in surgery, a resident of Dayco, near Day City, Mich., was being sought. He resembles closely the murderer and it is known he disappeared from his home ten days ago.

Carious persons hindered the work of officers by pressing by the thousands on the scene of the crime. Automobiles line the country road leading to the spot.

MAY EXCLUDE TELEGRAPH, TELEPHONE COS. IN PROBE

Washington—(AP)—Telegraph and telephone companies would be excluded from the proposed senate inquiry into the financial and other affairs of public utilities corporations, under the terms of the committee's charter.

When Senator Walsh concluded his presentation of more than an hour, former Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin told the committee that the joint committee of National Utilities associations desired to be heard. H. G. Wells of the Massachusetts Railroad and Utilities committee, also said he wanted to be heard as did several others, and the hearing was adjourned over until Tuesday.

Not that I don't believe the telephone and telegraph and radio industries should be investigated," Senator Walsh explained at the opening of his hearing, "but I don't want to take in any broader field than the light and power companies."

LINDBERGH HUNTING TAPIRS, LIONS, DEER

Withdraws While Frenchmen Are in City, but Crowds Almost Ignore Them

Panama City—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh Monday was on a hunting expedition in a region where tapirs, mountain lions and deer abound, taking a rest from flying. He was the guest of fellow aviators somewhere in the heart of the province of Chiriqui, about 20 miles from here, Monday, having the time of his life. He was the first to see the tapirs.

Deer are common and Joseph LeDoux, French hunter, who arrived here on Monday to New York, announced they would attempt a New York-Panama flight.

The absence of Lindbergh gave the people of Panama an opportunity to devote their undivided attention to the Frenchman but they were not unmoved through the city.

Lindbergh said that this was due to the lack of organization of the French press. He said he and his companion were known by such names as 'Lindbergh' and 'Lindbergh' and their photographs were being widely published.

"We are very busy in New York," he said, "because that has been done as well as it ever could be. Lindbergh. We are not eager to do it has been done. But a Paris-New York flight is constantly in the air."

The Frenchmen expected to leave Tuesday for Caracas, Venezuela.

TWO PRESIDENTS AT HAVANA

Here are two national leaders who are occupying prominent positions at the goodwill conference in Havana—President Machado of Cuba, and President Coolidge of the United States.

Havana Cheers Coolidge On Arrival For Congress

Havana—(AP)—A message of goodwill and international friendship was given to the nation of the new world Monday by President Coolidge, who received a tumultuous welcome on his first visit to one of his country's sister republics.

Assembled in the Cuban capital were the representatives of 21 Latin and South American countries to hear the American president make the principal address of the sixth Pan-American conference.

Although Mr. Coolidge had a crowded day, he was able to spare time to make his address, there were few who believe it could exceed in enthusiasm the wild and clamorous procession which marked his entry into the capital Sunday.

The harbor when he landed was a mass of seething, cheering crowds. The narrow streets along which he passed echoed with the cry of "Coolidge!" and "Coolidge!"

When Mr. Coolidge landed, the Cuban president, Gerardo Machado, met him at the airport, and the two presidents walked together to the hotel.

Mrs. Coolidge, who is the first woman to visit Cuba, was met by the Cuban president's wife, and the two women walked together to the hotel.

A giant three-colored radio equipment, which was added to the harbor, was used to broadcast the president's address.

President Lindbergh has been advised by the Cuban president to remain in the city until he has completed his mission.

The president's visit to Cuba is a part of his tour of the Americas.

Major General John A. Lejeune, commander of the marines, and Brigadier General Logan Feland, who came here from Corinto, went into conference with Col. Louis Mason Galek, commander of the marines in Nicaragua, on the present military situation and plans for the campaign against Sandino.

General Feland came to inspect the marine organization which General Feland had assumed the command.

A giant three-colored radio equipment, which was added to the harbor, was used to broadcast the president's address.

Closer Union Possible in Field of Commercial Relations. Cal States

Havana, Cuba—(AP)—In a speech before the Pan-American conference, President Coolidge said that the nations of the western hemisphere are best fitted to govern themselves.

He said that the nations of the western hemisphere are best fitted to govern themselves, and that they should be allowed to do so.

He also predicted that there would be a closer union in the field of commercial relations between the nations of the western hemisphere.

DOESN'T MENTION U. S.

Mr. Coolidge devoted his whole address to the community aspect of new world affairs, rather than to the individual attitude and policies of his own country.

The name of the United States was not once mentioned by the president, except to give the assurance that his government was prepared to encourage the development of shipping, airlines, highways, and all pursuits of peace that might bring the various units of the American family of states into a closer and more permanent harmony.

He declared that he had no intention of building a great nation building, but that he was interested in building a world of peace and cooperation.

CAL ASKS WEST TO UNITE FOR FREEDOM

neglectful of the military art, even if it did not invite and cause such aggression as to result either in war or in abject humiliation, it must finally lead to a disastrous disintegration of the very moral fiber of the nation. But it is one thing to be prepared to defend our rights as a last extremity and quite another to rely on force where reason might prevail.

NO DYNASTIC WARS

"The form of our governments guarantees us against the old World dynastic wars. It is scarcely too much to say that the conflicts which have been waged by our republics for 150 years have been almost entirely for the purpose of securing independence and extending the domain of human freedom. When these have been accomplished, we have not failed to heed the admonition to beat our swords into a plowshares."

The material vehicles for the promotion of a closer union of American states enumerated by the American president were highways, railroad lines, ocean lines, transportation of mail by air and the press of all countries. He noted that "great progress has been made in the publication of fuller information and unbiased views," but he expressed the hope for a still better exchange of news service between the various countries, contending that "what happens in this hemisphere is of more vital interest to all of us than what happens across any of the oceans."

In the development of shipping, between North and South America and the construction of railroads and highways to serve as feeders. He disclosed that he is asking the United States Congress for authority to send American engineering advisors to whatever Central and South American nations requests their services.

PREDICTS AIR ROUTES

He predicted that air mail routes will be established soon, and told the conference that the American congress was considering supporting such routes and that private citizens of the United States were considering their establishment.

"In the domain of commercial relations," the president added, "the last few years have witnessed an extraordinary strengthening of the economic ties binding together our republics. In both agricultural and industrial production the countries of America are now complementing one another to an unusual degree, resulting in an increasing exchange of commodities."

Although he did not name the Tacana-Africa boundary dispute, Mr. Coolidge did point to the "delicate and difficult nature" of boundary problems and declared that the past record of achievement in this respect "places heavy responsibility upon the present generation to advance the great work that has been so auspiciously begun."

Finally, President Coolidge commended to the congress a discussion of means to bring "all of our people more definitely and more completely under the reign of law."

"After all," he said, "it is in that direction that we must look with the greatest assurance for human progress. We can make no advance in the realm of economics, we can do nothing for education, we can accomplish but little even in the sphere of religion, until human affairs are brought within the orderly rule of law."

LAW PROTECTS WEAK

"The surest refuge of the weak and the oppressed is in the law. It is pre-eminently the shield of small nations."

While the law is necessary for the proper guidance of human action, and will always remain the source of freedom and liberty and the ultimate guaranty of all our rights, there is another element in our experience which must always be taken into consideration. We read that "The letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life." Oftentimes in our international relationship we shall have to look to the spirit rather than to the letter of the law. We shall have to realize that the highest law is consideration, cooperation, friendship, and charity.

"With law and charity as our guides, with that ancient faith which is only strengthening when it requires sacrifice, we shall anchor at last in the harbor of justice and truth. The same Pilot which stood by the side of the Great Discoverer, and the same wisdom which instructed the founding fathers of our republics, will continue to abide with us."

Badger Politics Split By Beer, Radicals, Writer Says

Beer and the views of Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska are blamed for an alleged split in the ranks of the La Follette-Blaine partisans in Wisconsin by a political writer for a Chicago newspaper who bases his guesses and statements apparently on what he has learned from interviews with political leaders in Milwaukee and the southern portion of the state.

Here is what he has to say about the Wisconsin political situation: Beer and radicalism have tossed Wisconsin politics into a hodge-podge of uproarious comicities. Mutiny has broken out among the La Follette-Blaine state for delegates to the national convention against the idea of pledging them to Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska for President, a dry of dyes.

A group from Milwaukee is vociferating that it will not submit to being changed to any camel to make a Roman holiday at Kansas City next June. Senators Blaine and La Follette are being spread by the Chicago writer.

At this meeting one leading problem is expected to be that of raising three rousing cheers for a dry for President with one lung and of chorusing a wet plang with the other lung.

SEE NO HARM IN 3 PER CENT BEER

Reports are being spread that Senator Norris has said he sees no harm in 3 per cent beer, but so far this has not perceptibly eased the discord among the La Follette-Blaine ranks, especially in Milwaukee and the Fox river towns where the federal agents are keeping the padlock factories working overtime.

Out of the discussion among the radicals arises a loud note of applause for Gov. Al Smith of New York. The theory of the Norris movement, as one hears it expounded by practical politicians here, war horses among the old line La Folletteites and among the Socialists, who are the second party in Wisconsin, is that Norris' candidacy is simply with a view of binding insurgent elements together in a group.

The wet and dry question, however, is away out in Wisconsin, once famous the world over for its bottled stuff. Late it has been accentuated by the work of the federal enforcement agents in closing up old-fashioned saloons and restaurants which have clients the politicians and the business men.

BLIND PIGS STILL AROUND

The state, which was one of the wettest in many spots Volstead being regarded as a myth from the start, still abounds in blind pigs, speak-easies, and bootleg joints, but the agents have been specializing on the places that draw the better element, the family custom, and there is much ado.

Politicians are pointing out that although former Senator Lenroot voted for prohibition and Volsteadism, while he was at Washington, enforcement somehow or other was not so stringent and a standardized mug of beer could be obtained openly by strangers in Milwaukee. The wets have laid hopes on Senator Blaine, but he apparently has no drag with the prohibition department.

Politicians point out the curious anomaly that Milwaukee is drier with a moist senator at Washington than with the dry Lenroot. Beer was a leading issue in the Lenroot-Blaine fight, and some Blaine warhorses insist the descent upon Milwaukee is perhaps by way of revenge.

VEILED PROPHETS GET BUSY

Some of the practical lads surmise that the La Follette-Blaine group may try to elect an untried delegation to Kansas City, instead of openly pledging it to Norris. Right here, all the veiled prophets get busy. Looking ahead to next fall, there is a vast amount of conjecture, that if Gov. Smith is the Democratic nominee, he possibly may carry Wisconsin.

A bolt of the radical groups like that of four years ago, only this time to the Democratic party instead of to a third party, is regarded as not out of the question. The observer hears old war horses already proclaiming the progressive views of Gov. Al Smith.

If the Republicans should name a dry candidate, regarded as ultra conservative, the old timers say, Smith might get enough radical support in Wisconsin to give him the state.

SAY AL HAS CHANCE IN WISCONSIN

Two radical war horses today, in weighing chances, figured that between Coolidge and Smith, the Democrat would carry the state; between Hoover and Smith, it would be a close fight; between Lowden and Smith, the chances would favor Lowden. If Senators Willis of Ohio, Curtis of Kansas, or Watson of Indiana, should be nominated, they figured Smith, if the Democratic candidate, would have a romp in Wisconsin.

Present prospects are that Wisconsin's delegation to Kansas City will be split up as never before in the last twenty years. The conservatives, although divided as usual, are preparing for unusually stiff fights in many districts.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

A strong high pressure area with cold weather, has moved rapidly from Manitoba to the St. Lawrence Valley over the weekend. It is now followed by low pressure over Alberta and the plains, though as yet with indefinite centers of activity. The condition is expected to develop during the next 24 hours, however, and cause some snow in this section tonight and Tuesday. There is no indication of any material change in temperature.

An estimated $100,000,000 in extra dividends will be the present to the public from American industry and business.

LETTER GOLF

A SHORT WAY
From LAND to JAIL the way is short, and to land there, all you have to do is break the law. Four strokes are required, according to par solution on page 9, which you may find can be beaten.

LAND

THE RULES

- 1-The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COV to HEN, in three strokes, COV, HOW, HEW HEN.
- 2-You can change only one letter at a time.
- 3-You must have a complete word, of common usage, for each jump. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
- 4-The order of letters cannot be changed.

MISPRINT MADE THIS JOB A LUCRATIVE ONE

Due to an error in the Saturday issue of the Post-Crescent, it was erroneously stated that the city council had tentatively set the salary of the city attorney at $5,000 for the coming year. It should have read $2,400, an increase of $400. The boast in salary in this case was one of five set at the Friday night meeting. They must be definitely decided on, however, at the first meeting in February.

Priest Besieged In House After War On Moonshiners

Stanley—(P)—Following a crusade for strict enforcement of the prohibition laws in one of the "wettest" rural sections of Wisconsin, the Rev. S. M. Szymczak, pastor of the Catholic church at Stanley Junction, four miles northeast of here has been living as one besieged in his parish house.

A letter to him threatened death by strangulation if he continued his attacks on drinking. He turned the letter over to the federal authorities with the names of eight or ten men who have been opposed to him.

The priest arrived in Stanley Junction not quite a year ago. His parish of some fifty families is scattered all through the cut-over timber land of southwestern Taylor, northwestern Clark and east Chippewa counties. This section has been known for the large quantities of liquor it produces and among peace officers and prohibition agents as a dangerous section.

The people, mostly of native born, the first generation of native born, mix with others very little. The country affords protection for moonshiners, as it is thickly wooded, with second growth timber and sparsely settled. The people are as alert to the presence of an outsider as Kentucky and Tennessee moonshiners.

When peace officers go there to make an arrest, they go expecting trouble and usually find it. A few months ago deputy sheriff Tom Braniff attacked him with a pitchfork while he was trying to serve execution of a civil court judgment.

Father Szymczak has confined his crusade almost exclusively to speeches from the pulpit. His life has been threatened half a dozen times. The latest being a ten page missive written in Polish, and warning him if he did not "get out" he would be "treated to a piece of string." It told him that the gang that pulled the "string" around his throat would not be punished because "we are poor ignorant people."

The pastor says that sober, the people are harmless but "should they go crazy," realizing his danger he goes about admitting anyone to his house and keeps the doors locked day and night and the shades drawn. However, he gives no indication of either "getting out" or of "changing his attitude."

Eleven cases are listed for hearing at a special term of Outagamie-co court which will be held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at the courthouse by County Judge Fred V. Heinemann.

Cases on the calendar are: Hearings on petition for administration in the estate of J. D. Farmer; hearing on proof of will in the estates of Henry N. Britton and Martha Krueger; hearing on petition for guardian for John Greb and John H. Glaser; hearing on petition for descent of lands in the estates of Eliza J. Sawyer; hearing on claims in the estates of Helen Glassbrenner, Elsie M. Bottenset and Franklin Carroll; hearing on claims on waiver in the estates of Ferdinand Koletzke; hearing on final account in the estates of Charles J. Glaser and George V. Payzant.

TOOK DOCTOR'S ADVICE—COLD GONE NEXT DAY

Many Here Find Way to End Colds Overnight at Home by Hospital Tested Method

By taking the advice of her doctor and using a method that has relieved even the most extreme hospital cases, Miss Agnes L. White, like numbers of Appleton people, found the quickest way to get rid of a stuffy cold.

Miss White, for example, had neglected her cold several days in the hope that it would clear up of its own accord. Instead, it started settling in her nose passages and chest. She began to feel feverish, and finally called the clinic for advice, when her mother feared pneumonia.

Relief began almost immediately when doctors gave her double doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a concentrated mixture of wild cherry, terpenehydrate and other ingredients used in treating even the most extreme hospital cases. She felt its comforting warmth instantly—from her nose passages deep down into her chest. In a few hours the redness of her eyes was gone; her nose passages began to clear up and in another day or so, doctors report, the cold was completely gone.

Note: See other cases reported daily—all certified to this paper by the physician who treated each case.

Doctors find that this hospital medicine does far more than stop coughing instantly. It penetrates and heals inflamed linings of the breathing passages. Absorbed by the system it quickly reduces phlegm, helps slough that "feverish," grippy feeling and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Cherry Pectoral now and you'll feel like a different person tomorrow. Endorsed by Schinzel Bros., and all druggists, 60c; twice as much in $1.00 hospital size.

Naturalist Tells Reasons Why Robins Steal Cherries

BY B. A. CLAFIN

For the benefit of the young naturalists, particularly those living in the rural districts, I am going to say something about the Thrushees in this article. When we hear that word we think at once of the Brown Thrush, or Thrasher. You may be surprised, however, to learn that this very commonly known inhabitant of our lush woodlands does not belong to the family of Thrushees at all.

The true Thrush family is a large one, consisting of some 250 species, all of which are not common to America, however. The best known to us, perhaps, are the Robin, Varied Thrush, Wood Thrush, Swainson's Thrush, the Stone Chat, the Red start and our common Bluebird.

The study of birds is one of the most interesting subjects that nature has to offer. We can never learn it all, but the more we do learn of their habits and peculiarities, the more convinced we are that nothing they do is done haphazardly. Every move is guided by a divine hand, and every bird, and his manner of living, has a place in the great scheme of the universe.

The common Robin can endure great cold and does not migrate to the south on account of low temperatures. This will be best appreciated when we say that this bird breeds as far north of the Arctic Circle, hence cold can hardly be said to drive him southward. The reason he does migrate is because, as winter comes on in the northern portions of the country, there is no longer available the insects and worms upon which he feeds almost exclusively. And yet there are those who condemn this fine bird because, more to get the moisture than for any other reason, he sometimes steals a ripe cherry.

The Robin has to come extensively through the southern portion of the United States. In 1917, while driving across New Mexico during the month of November, I saw them in flocks of countless thousands occupying the scrubby trees of the side hills. One colony was full five miles long.

The Wood Thrush is also a commonly known bird. Chiefly, perhaps, by its habits of nesting on the ground in thick swamps; and by its exquisitely sweet song, which will be heard providing you are not gone.

Swainson's Thrush is an olive colored bird with a white breast, and about the size of the Robin. Unlike the Wood Thrush, he builds his nest in bushes and low trees, and is not found so often in the swamps.

The Stone Chat, or Wheat Ear, is a bird widely common to all temperate zones of the globe. He is brownish-rufous in color with white breast, black wings and tail. His home habits are quite different, however, for he nests in holes in the ground, or among rocks.

Everyone is familiar with our Eastern Bluebird. This beautiful bird breeds throughout the Middle States, and is commonly then does the Robin, and when it comes as one of the early hints of spring, bringing its bit of blue sky with cheery, vibrant song.

And now he wanted her to run away with him—to go to some far place where they could be happy together always.

Love, she had often heard, is a law unto itself. Should she answer his call—sacrifice home, honor, everything—in a desperate pursuit of real happiness?

THIS was the problem Lucy had to solve. And her decision, she knew, would mean either freedom to live and love as she chose—or bring down upon her head disillusionment and ruin.

What did she do? She tells you frankly, vividly, in "Forgotten Vows," which appears complete with fourteen other soul-stirring features in the February issue of True Story Magazine. Your newsdealer can supply you. Buy it today.

OLD DAYS BROUGHT UP BY COURT CASE

Local Judge Hears Case Regarding Bar Fixtures, Mirror, Bar and All

Shades of pre-Prohibition days! The "old-time" saloon was recalled in a suit heard by Judge Theodore Berg in the upper branch of municipal court Friday afternoon in which the George Walter Brewing company of Appleton sought to recover a group of bar fixtures from George Striegel, Seymour, Wis., who had purchased them from the Walter company.

Liquor cases, back bar and mirror, bar and box were included in the articles which the Walter company claimed and which Striegel also claimed. Striegel said the fixtures were sold to him in 1922 when he purchased the building and personal property from Peter Strelke. Strelke testified that a mistake had been made in making out the warranty deed and

DIESTLER PAYS $50 FINE FOR ILLEGAL TRAPPING

Robert Diestler, Hortonville, Wis., was fined $50 and costs when he pleaded guilty to a charge of illegal trapping before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Saturday morning. Diestler was arrested Saturday morning by Game Warden Louis Jeske and Deputy Sheriff Joseph Hassenan. Mr. Diestler was charged with trapping muskrats in muskrat houses and set traps inside. The alleged offense took place on Saturday, Jan. 7, according to Mr. Jeske.

The bar fixtures were furnished to Strelke by the Appleton firm when Strelke started in business in Seymour many years ago. That was back in those "old days" when the brewer-ies outfitted the saloons and in return the proprietor sold that firm's "product" exclusively.

Can Stolen Love Bring Happiness?

NEVER would Lucy forget the day when she suddenly awoke to the fact that she was in love with another woman's husband.

And what was more amazing, more thrilling, he was in love with her.

What should she do? She knew that she was desperately unhappy—tied apparently for life to the cold, silent man whom she had thought she loved when she married him.

STILL she might have accepted her unhappy lot and hid her tears, as women sometimes will—had an ironic fate not brought Bert Thomas into her life. But as they were thrown more and more together, she found in his kindness, gentleness and tender sympathy all those things that her heart had been starving for.

And now he wanted her to run away with him—to go to some far place where they could be happy together always.

Love, she had often heard, is a law unto itself. Should she answer his call—sacrifice home, honor, every-

Coach Able to Use Second String Men During Last Half of Both Encounters

Neenah—The Neenah high school basketball team played and won two games over the weekend at Gillett, Friday evening the local team won easily by a score of 28 to 18. In this game the team had easy sailing, the score reaching 15 to 0 at the end of the first quarter and 22 to 6 at the end of the half. Coach Jorgensen then began using in his second string men. This gave the Gillett team a chance to pick up a few scores at the expense of the less experienced men who nevertheless managed to keep far enough ahead to avoid a free throw. In this game both Haase and Schneller made four baskets each; Johnson, two baskets; Pratt one basket and a free throw; Eblefs, a basket and Gaertner a basket. Free throws were made by Theimann, Radtke.

Returning home the team Saturday evening played the Rippon team at Roosevelt gymnasium and again won this time by a score of 20 to 14. The game started with a free throw by Rippon which was the only point made by the team during the first quarter, while Neenah was busy registering eight. At the end of the half Neenah had 13 points to Rippons four. Again the coach put in some of his second string men who were helped by Gaertner and Radtke, each making a basket and the latter a free throw. Haase Johnson and Pratt each made a basket during the game while Schneller registered four and a free throw.

At the end of the third quarter the score was 20 to 10, the visiting team making four points in the last quarter to Neenah starting at the 20 mark. The players on the Rippon team worked hard especially Sterkine, left forward who made 11 points for his team with three baskets and five free throws.

TRIP TO HAVANNA COOLIDGE'S FIRST WHILE IN OFFICE

President Plans to Spend but One Day in Havana Because of Congress

Washington (AP)—When President Coolidge leaves the United States to address the sixth international conference of American states in Havana, Cuba, Jan. 16, he will be making his first visit to the Caribbean region and his first trip to another country since he became chief executive of the nation.

Accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, Secretary of State Kellogg and Secretary of the Navy Wilbur, the president will carry a message from the United States to the representatives of 20 other American republics which make up the Pan-American Union.

MAKE SHORT VISIT
Because congress will be in session and the White House social season at its height, Mr. Coolidge will be unable to spend more than a day in Havana. But this short stay, it is believed, will go a long way toward clearing the atmosphere of a great deal of suspicion of the United States' foreign policy and attitude toward the component states of the Union.

Confronted with consideration of the report of the commission of jurists which met this year in Rio de Janeiro, the congress is expected to be charged with controversial material.

The report includes a complete codification of private and public international law, recommended for adoption by the nations of America. Several of its recommendations, which the conference will be asked to approve or reject, prohibit any kind of intervention by one state in the territory of any other state. It attacks and holds as illegal several recent acts of intervention on the part of the United States, notably in Nicaragua and Haiti.

HAVE EIGHT DELEGATES

Eight delegates, each chosen for his individual excellence in some phase of the work to be done in Havana, will represent the United States. They include Charles Evans Hughes, Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico; Henry P. Fletcher, ambassador to Italy and one of America's foremost authorities on international law; Dr. James Brown Scott, Washington, another international law authority; Judge J. M. O'Brien of New York; President Wilbur of Leland Stanford University; former Senator Oscar Underwood of Alabama and Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union.

Ambassador Fletcher has been in Washington since Nov. 23 supervising the preparatory work of the American delegation. He is secretary of the group.

CARNEGIE GIVE BUILDING

The Pan-American Union was founded following the first international conference in Washington in 1890. Its avowed aims include preservation of peace, facilitation of commercial, cultural and social intercourse between the American nations and development of all kinds of communication between North, South and Central America.

The Union is ruled by a governing board with headquarters in the Pan-American Union building here. The building was a gift of Andrew Carnegie. The board is composed of the needs of diplomatic missions of American nations in Washington, and the secretary of state of the United States. Countries not having diplomatic missions here may appoint special representatives on the governing board.

President Coolidge's plans include a trip in a special train to Key West, Fla. There he will board the U. S. S. Texas, flagship of the United States fleet, if it is not raining, and proceed to Havana. If the weather is inclement, a navy cruiser will speed him on his way, as the Texas is too large to enter the harbor there and the trip to the battleship in an open boat would be too uncomfortable.

After delivering his message, the president will start back as soon as possible for Washington.

FIREWORKS TO END FAIR AT SEYMOUR

Directors Will Have Regular Naval Battle for Visitors on Closing Night

BY W. F. WINSEY

Seymour—The board of directors of the Seymour Fair association at a meeting held Thursday evening decided to hold a three-day and three-night fair this year with a change of special attractions each day and a change of special attractions and fireworks each night culminating the third night in spectacular pyrotechnic contesting of a representation of terrific bombardment by war vessels in passing and re-passing each other in a surging sea.

"If the program of special attractions, fireworks and races in preparation is carried out, we have to reason to fear that any other fair in Wisconsin will prove more attractive throughout than the next Seymour fair even if the latter runs three nights," declared Secretary Fiedler.

The board of directors instructed the secretary to send free tickets for the fair to pupils of the rural school children of Outagamie county twelve years of age and under and to those of schools outside and near the boundary of Outagamie county.

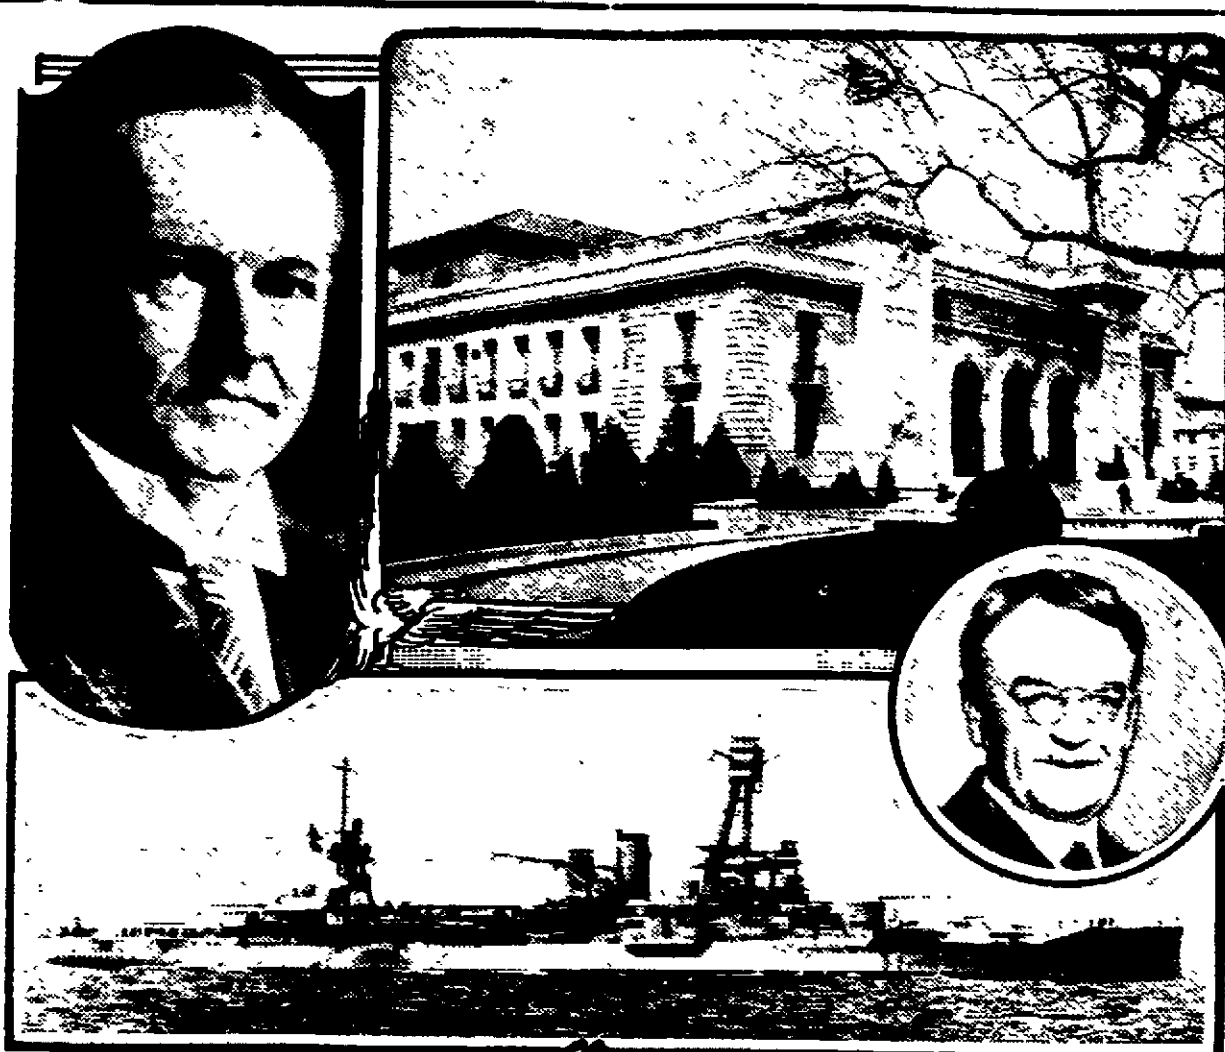

As the premium list will soon be in preparation, Secretary Fiedler requested the board members to call for suggestions along the line of revision of the list from the public in writing.

The members of the board of directors present at the meeting were: W. F. Huth, president, George F. Fiedler, secretary, T. A. Nickodem, treasurer, and Charles Sievert, William F. Picht, George Eisenrich, Perry Culbertson, Fred Ziesemer, G. D. Libby, George Fack, William Beck, F. A. Shepherd, Arthur M. Falk and A. J. Keune, directors.

TRIP TO HAVANNA

To address the delegates to the sixth congress of the Pan-American Union at Havana, January 16, President Coolidge (left) will make his first trip outside the United States as the nation's executive. He will go by train to Key West, Fla., and thence to Havana on the flag-ship Texas (below). Among the United States delegates to the congress is Dwight W. Morrow, (inset), ambassador to Mexico. At the right above is the Pan-American building in Washington, headquarters of the union.

THE STORY THUS FAR

TONY HARRISON, 13, is orphaned when JEFF HARRISON, his father, is shot in a poker game in Caldwell, Kas. He is befriended by

GORDON W. LILLIE, a restaurant waiter, by

JOE CRAIG, foreman of the Bar K ranch, who takes Tony to the Bar K to live, and by

COLONEL TITUS MOORE, owner of the ranch, which is in the Cherokee Strip.

There the shy little boy meets

RITA, tomboy daughter of Titus Moore.

He and Craig are in Caldwell

This was just as well for John Blake, he had a habit of speaking very plainly and of making his type burn beneath fiery charges which, while they were justifiable enough, often lacked the proof necessary to convince a court of law.

The next issue of the Tribune, a sensation. Most of Caldwell chuckled as it read; men walked the streets that afternoon and winked expressively at one another, then paused to discuss the probable effect of Blake's utterances on Shafer, the proprietor of the Oasis saloon. In the end they invariably drifted toward the Oasis that they might be eyewitnesses to Shafer's embarrassment, or whatever other reaction the editorial might evoke.

Heretofore Blake's tirades against the liquor interests of Caldwell had never challenged the personal honesty of any of the saloon owners. His campaign had been sweeping; although he himself had acknowledged he was not a prohibitionist, he nevertheless had lamented the fact that the town was so saturated with whisky as to "wake up every morning with a hangover."

When he had singled out the Oasis for comment, it was only to remark that the place drew the toughest element of the frontier to its bar.

In his latest editorial he grew he said, "would appear to be a royal

There was more of it—a whole column of it—but this was the morsel

OCEAN SPEED

News dispatches from the other side of the water tell of a strange and a new ship which will be capable, in the view of its designers, of crossing the Atlantic ocean in 60 hours. The vessel will be so constructed that it may travel at only slightly reduced speed during the heaviest weather, and in clear weather it will skim over the surface of the sea at the speed of 70 miles an hour.

The accomplishment of Charles A. Lindbergh in spanning the ocean by air in 33 hours is credited with having had something to do with the plans of the French designers, who are working on their first vessel near Paris. When papers and laymen said that Lindbergh's flight was an "epoch making" event, little did they realize the full scope of the revolution in transportation that portended.

For not alone did the Lindbergh flight give confidence to a world still highly skeptical about the accomplishments of heavier-than-air craft, but it evidently started steamshipmen to thinking in what manner the present long running time between the Old world and the New could be cut down. Coincident with the report from Paris is the disclosure of plans that a group of steamshipmen are planning a great port north of New York, probably near New London, Conn., from which point vessels will play across the seas on schedules greatly reduced from those now in force.

The world will await the final results of the new French ship before passing judgment. It is something revolutionary in ship design. That is certain. At that it appears to be the forerunner of new transportation that will bring the world even closer together seems extremely likely.

FATIGUE AND ACCIDENTS

Safety organizations, in studying traffic accidents and their elimination, have gone into the psychological phase quite thoroughly. They find that the outstanding mental condition giving rise to casualties is fatigue. Carelessness, recklessness, lowered skill and judgment in either driver or pedestrian may almost invariably be traced to weariness. Also, actual mental and physical defects, as well as intoxication, are the causes of many accidents, but they seem to be of less importance than fatigue.

The person going home from work in the rush hour at the end of the day needs to take thought of his natural fatigue and to exercise extra care in order to make his trip in safety to himself and others. Most highway safety work today is concentrated chiefly on five aims. One is education and regulation of pedestrian as well as motor traffic. Adoption of a standard code of motor vehicle laws in every state is another. Education in accident prevention in the elementary schools, public and private, is regarded as of great importance. Attention to the mechanical adjustments of cars is urged as a preventive measure. Street widening and the elimination of grade crossings and dangerous curves comprise the final objective.

Bad as the highway accident situation is, it might really be very much worse. For that very reason, the outlook is hopeful for further safety progress.

THE BAUMES LAWS

A large part of the United States is interested in the control of crime are watching closely the application of the Baumes laws, which provide among other things that persons convicted four times of felonies shall serve the remainder of their natural life in prison.

The recent statement of an eminent jurist that the object of the laws—to curb violent crime—is being defeated by the severity of the laws themselves, is interesting. It is argued that persons having previously been convicted three times may without a great deal of hesitation turn a fourth offense into murder if the victim shows fight. In other words, a hold-up man who ordinarily would let his crime rest with a hold-up, might commit murder if he thought that arrest would bring him life imprisonment. It is held that the Baumes laws have the effect of making third offenders gamble the electric chair or freedom against life incarceration.

The point is worthy of close study by criminologists. It is apparent that the Baumes laws have not acted as a deterrent to violent crime in New York state. Perhaps some modification may be helpful, although the principle of the laws is sound.

"COLDS" UNDER MICROSCOPE

Johns Hopkins university medical scientists, aided by a fund of $195,000, are going to conduct an exhaustive study in the causes and treatments of ordinary colds. The gift was made to The School of Hygiene and Public Health, which has already made several such surveys, and is to be known as the John J. Abel Fund for Research on Common Cold.

One of the studies the scientists will take up is the relationship between the cold, influenza and "grip." Clinically, Dr. Abel points out, these diseases overlap. There is also, he says, for more study of the bacteriology of these diseases, for, while it is believed they are infectious, bacteriologists have not yet succeeded in identifying with certainty the particular bacteria or viruses which may be responsible.

The common cold is one of the great plagues of mankind. Thousands suffer yearly through it, bringing about, besides much personal pain and discomfort, a vast economic loss. It has been computed that the common cold is responsible for more lost time on the part of wage earners than any other disease. And, too, it is weakening, so that the human body, after an attack, is less able to ward off more virulent diseases that may lay dormant in the system.

A great field of study lies before the Johns Hopkins board, but it is doubtful if the amount at hand is sufficient to go far into the study. One wishes the fund were larger. In any event, it is a good start and from it may develop something of incalculable value to humanity.

LIVING TOO FAST

Americans live too fast: their heart action is speeded up to such a pitch that their hearts just naturally cannot stand the strain. This is clearly shown by the increase of deaths from diseases of the heart. In 1925, from statistics covering 89.8 per cent of the population of the United States, there were 191,226 deaths from diseases of the heart; in 1926, there were 209,370 deaths from the same cause, the rate jumping from 185.5 to 199.1 per 100,000 persons.

And the serious thing about the situation is that the percentage will probably continue to increase. The tendency of the times is ever toward greater speed in every activity of life. There is no indication that the heart strain will be less, but rather that it will gradually increase in proportion to the increase of speed in human activities.

Pneumonia, nephritis, cancer and tuberculosis have to more or less extent yielded to the hand of science. What about these over-taxed hearts, the cause of the greatest number of deaths in the United States? What is science doing about them? What can it do?

Obviously, the quickest and best remedy would be to slow down the over-speeded processes of a speed crazed civilization, but as well talk to the winds. None would hear. And if they did, they would not heed.

THE MODEL FAT BOY REPORTS PROGRESS

Only regular readers will remember the model fat boy, and probably only fatish ones will be interested in his progress, so before he submits his report we had better explain about him.

He barged in here last summer at the age of 47, 58 inches tall, weighing 194 pounds—20 per cent excess baggage which by rights ought to cost a man 20 per cent surtax. He passed a life insurance examination nevertheless. He could hold his breath 21 seconds—which is not enough for a live man. In the health examination the model fat boy received three bad marks: (1) on slight effort he began to perspire profusely; (2) he confessed frequent momentary spells of dizziness on suddenly standing up or jumping out of bed; and (3) he admitted on cross examination that he had become just a little grouchy and crabbed in the last few years. All this was duly recorded here July 15.

July 20 we made an assay of the fat boy's knickknacks. Yea, this trifling came out in the health examination—the life insurance examiner cares nothing at all about an applicant's knickknack history. A life insurance examination is a very poor test indeed if you want to know about your health status. The fat boy's evening knickknack averaged 400 calories, six peanut butter crackers sandwiched or a hired man slab of apple pie. This he had the habit of tucking away as he sat and smoked and read before retiring.

Next it is almost axiomatic in nutrition that if you can prevail upon a poor skinny gink to wear himself around some such bedtime lunch every night, over and above his ordinary day's rations, he will pick up something like 20 pounds in a year, all other things being favorable and the poor gink free to gain.

So the treatment of the fat boy's case was obvious. He was advised to delete knickknacking from his scheme of life, and since that could be expected only to stop the steady accumulation of surplus flesh, he was given some positive suggestions too, golf, gardening, carpentering, and walking a definite distance daily, among them.

Well, the fat boy just reported, and we are glad to say he reports progress. In six months he has fought a determined fight against the knickknacks—some men have wives who just henpeck them to death, while others have no wife, but he has ruined with knickknacks—and while he still weakens and indulges now and then, he weighs only 178 pounds and he can now hold his breath 33 seconds. He is walking about three miles a day besides doing prodigies of ground and lofty carpentering around his home.

If the fat boy were a woman this would be nothing at all to speak of, but being a man, and of the self indulgent sex his progress thus far is still a wonderful to relate. His wife testifies that he is getting much more like his old self, which is to say a return of something of his old sunny disposition.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Should a Husband Know?

When an operation is performed in a hospital I understand a report is filed by the surgeon, but this report is not open to the public. Could a husband get a copy of an operation so performed on his wife, or could a wife get a report of an operation on her husband? (S. M. T.)

Answer—Certainly the surgeon or the family physician will inform the wife or husband about any such operation under normal circumstances.

The Pariah.
Please state if it is advisable to let a consumptive stay in the house overnight. He lives in — and we are considering having him with us as a guest until we can get him admitted to a sanatorium. Is it safe to do so? (M. M.)

Answer—It would be perfectly safe if the consumptive has been taught how to avoid spreading infection and is able and conscientiously willing to take proper care. Probably he has not been so taught unless he has had a good up to date physician or a surgeon in a tuberculosis hospital or sanatorium. In any case, practically the only risk in having such a guest in your home for a week or two is for any children who might thus come into intimate contact with the invalid. Adults know they should not unnecessarily enter within conversational range of a consumptive (five feet). Besides, adults usually have some degree of acquired immunity to tuberculosis, which is protective.

A Great Stunt — If He Does It

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

By Arnold Mulder

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF THE DREAM STORY

Charles Dickens once said that no man would ever dream that he met himself. In the dream he stays in his own skin, as it were. He may go through all sorts of weird and fantastic adventures that have no logical sequence and that are completely impossible and without reason. But he stays in his own skin. It would be impossible, for instance, Dickens seemed to believe, for a man in a dream to meet himself and kill the person he met.

Not being an authority on dreams, I don't know whether this is a universal principle or merely one man's conclusion based on his own experience, but I am quite certain that much of the psychology in the typical dream story or dream play is fallacious. It represents the author's idea of what a person ought to dream rather than what it is reasonable to believe anyone would dream.

Dickens' own "Christmas Carol" is perhaps the most familiar illustration. It is a fantasy of course and as such, it may be argued, it is not subject to the necessity of being true to dream psychology. But as the authentic story of an alleged authentic dream it has no right to be despised.

Scrooge, the selfish and brutal one, the man with hardly a drop of the milk of human kindness in his soul, dreams that he is being taken to the haunts of the poor by the Spirit of Christmas. In the course of that journey is again and again torn with pity. He gets into the skins of the oppressed and the lowly and sees through their eyes and hearts. In the end he is of course redeemed from his selfishness.

But notice that it is Charles Dickens Scrooge's author, who can see the beauty and the nobility of the lives of the poor, of Tiny Tim and all the rest of them. Dickens had had training in that kind of thing. All his life his heart had been going out to the poor and the oppressed. He could feel their sorrows and their pitiful joys. Scrooge had had no such training. He is portrayed at the beginning of the book as about 100 per cent selfish. Dream or no dream, he could never have entered imaginatively into the lives of the poor. He could not pity them because he could not visualize them. It doesn't seem reasonable that what a man cannot visualize in his waking moments he would visualize in dreams. Moreover, like nearly all highly selfish men, he did not know he was selfish. Would he be likely to come to that knowledge in his dream? It seems quite improbable to me. I believe that the psychology of the "Christmas Carol" is far from authentic.

And the same can be said of a great many dream plots.

Take the well known play, "A Message From Mars." Again a very selfish man dreams and sees himself as very selfish. He is shown the logical results of his selfishness and wakes up to a better life. The story is extremely hackneyed and the popularity of such a play is probably due, in large measure, to the pleasure of recognition — for the same reason that we enjoy a very familiar song. But as for its dream psychology, I believe that it is about a hundred per cent worthless. No one, of course, ever dreams so logically and consequently as the characters are made to do in "Christmas Carol" or "A Message From Mars." We dream in jumbled flashes, very rarely in sequence, probably never in a long enough sequence so that a story or a play or a novel can be evolved from it. But waive that. All art is artificial in one way or another and a writer may be allowed that much license.

But a man is not likely to be greatly different in his dreams from what he is in his waking life. He may be far different in dreams than he appears to be in ordinary living. But in most of the typical dream stories the characters are brutally selfish in their very heart of hearts. It seems unreasonable to me that they should visualize unselfishness in their dreams. People can't get out of their own skins, as it were.

In all such stories the author has a sermon to preach and when was authenticity ever allowed to interfere with a pat moral?

A REAL ESTATE DEAL

Editor Post-Crescent—I read with interest your editorial of recent date, asking that readers make more use of their privilege of making use of the PEOPLE'S FORUM.

It has been brought to my attention that nine or ten of our Aldermen voted to loan Mr. Wettengel $1500 to buy some property located west or north of Alicia park. This is rather a very strange procedure to let Mr. Wettengel have $1500 of the property owner's money to buy property in Mr. Wettengel's name. It seems to me that if Mr. Wettengel was so anxious to benefit the city he might have gone into his own funds; bought the property and dedicated same to the city. This is what was done in the Loev plant.

Now let us look at this as a whole proposition. He wants to buy a hundred feet for the amount asked, $1500. When he has bought it and has the deed, he then agrees to turn over sixty feet to the City for street purposes. Now this street that is proposed, is first of all, going to be of considerable benefit to Mr. Wettengel. Secondly, who gets the twenty feet that will be left over after sixty feet has been dedicated to a street? Does the City get that too or does Mr. Wettengel keep that after he has bought it with our $1500?

This whole deal looks rather bad and it needs fresh air. This is the first time that anyone has ever come to the Council asking for money to buy real estate deal by which they will greatly benefit. I want to mention at this time that I take my hat off to Alderman Vanderheyden and Alderman Richard as they were the only two that voted against this deal.

Mr. Wettengel agrees to give a bond for the faithful performance of the task of buying that land. Is Mr. Wettengel the City's real estate dealer? Since when is the Council so lame that they cannot do this task? It seems easy for some folks to be lulled into a trance. Well that is just about it. They stayed out until 1:30 a. m. I have read. It must have been difficult to bring the ten boys too. Some times it does take quite awhile before it wears off—perhaps in the spring of this year some can be washed off.

Sincerely,
T. H. WARREN.

The Question Box

Information on almost any subject can be secured by sending questions to the Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic Eskin, director, Washington D. C. The bureau does not answer questions pertaining to medicine nor does it express opinions on the merits of stocks and bonds. Send a 2-cent stamp or a stamped and self-addressed envelope with your question.

Q. What is bentonite? R. P. A. Bentonite is a bedded plastic clay which swells greatly upon wetting. It is used as sizing for paper, absorbent in dynamite manufacture, retarder for hard (gypsum) plaster, adulterant in candles and drugs, hoof packing, and as a constituent of a remedial dressing.

Q. Where does the Delmarva Peninsula get its name? A. C. A. It is so named because within its confines are the State of Delaware, part of Maryland, and two counties of Virginia.

Q. Why is the treaty for limiting naval armament alluded to as the 5-5-3 Treaty? S. W. A. Because the treaty limited the total capital ship and aircraft carrier tonnage of the United States, Great Britain, and Japan to 525,000, 525,000, and 315,000 tons, respectively. It has been popularly termed the 5-5-3 Treaty.

CAPable is the word

In serving young men, there is one word in Webster's that means much—CAPable.

Miss Hurst Is Modern In New Book

Somewhere, in one of the half dozen states that are to produce presidents of these United States, there is a growing white who one day will walk into the White House.

What is his background? What is his family life? What are the circumstances that formulate his future conduct?

Intriguing questions these: and an intriguing idea. It's what Fannie Hurst has dared to tackle in her latest novel, "A President Is Born" (Harpers). "There," says Fannie, "pointing out into the great Middle West, but for the grace of politics, goes the greater president since Lincoln."

Miss Hurst has picked for her president little David Schuyler. She brings him into the world during a family dinner in the first chapter and at page 184, sends him from the home town in Centralia, Ohio, to start his career at Springfield. He is then about 18. His background has been built.

Being a seventh son and thus mystically endowed by the author, he is seen in the family circles as no ordinary, every-day Schuyler, but one who has something big in store.

He does not become president during Miss Hurst's story. But she has a novel device for forcing him into the presidency. This is done by a series of foot-notes, presumed to have been taken from a family diary.

When in Miss Hurst's main theme, she is telling how he visited the Chinese laundries, played Indian and defended a negro servant when a lad, there appears a foot-note telling you that when he became a great president these adventures affected his humanitarian viewpoint on the Asiatic, negro and Indian questions.

Had we ever caught Miss Hurst being satirical, sardonic, or even playfully bitter, we might have suspected her at these moments. If the judgment of presidents is to be swayed by childhood games such as to be played by children, and the future of the nation is to be decided by the actions of bees and ants and such, if he took to heart the life of bees, as he did his Indian games, then we at this moment are headed either for Communism or Fascism—as any good bee student will tell you.

However, thanks to the fine library of David's brother, Henry, we learn that the youth has read Douglass's "Arabia Deserta," and had pored over the actions of bees and ants and such. If he took to heart the life of bees, as he did his Indian games, then we at this moment are headed either for Communism or Fascism—as any good bee student will tell you.

is for David's family. It was, to say the least, an mixed and a great strength. The father was sturdy, proud, built of the honest faith and old conventions. So were all the elders.

Of the juniors there was the altruistic and philosophical Henry, whose influence certainly should have been helpful, since it was so mixed with tolerance and civilized viewpoint.

There was Steve, who went in for gin at a period when gin-drinking was not a social asset. Steve had the "modern" slant. He even dared his little blonde cousin drunk and fall in love with her, precipitating a family crisis.

The other family crisis came when the junior Schuyler's fortunes were swept away through loans made an old friend. The family fortunes toppled and Dave was unable to get necessary schooling. But he goes right along and everyone in the family is sure he will carry the colors to eventual victory.

Altogether, we were not greatly convinced by the book. More than one reader is apt to be a bit bored. Yet, we feel, the book will be greatly discussed. The topic demands debate. We feel, even, that it may sell like hot-cakes, since there is so much in it that makes for popularity; puppy-love; boy hero, kid-dog attachment, and all that. And Miss Hurst can write forcefully, even when we like her least.

QUART OF WATER CLEANS KIDNEYS

Take a Little Salts if Your Back Hurts, or Bladder Is Troubling You

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, dizziness, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of sealding, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications.

Crow Pictures Tutors As Gentle But Firm Leaders

Natural resources and intelligence are the two factors necessary to make a state prosperous, declares William L. Crow, professor of political science, in the January Wisconsin Journal of Education.

"Of the two, I would rank intelligence far above natural resources," he says. "I would rather cast my vote with American genius on the St. Lawrence river than with poor stupidity in the gold and silver mines of Mexico."

"Education adds to the material prosperity of the state. Material prosperity is not to be despised if it is used not as an end in itself, but as a basis for a new elevation of genius and character."

Education, properly directed, breeds the apparent impulse of conflicts of classes; it produces a common moral standard; it smoothes out the rough edges of things; it makes for tolerance and religion, inspires service and devotion to the ideal of brotherhood. Though I may not admire him who worships at the shrine of Washington and Lincoln; but I hate that quality in him which would belittle the heroes of another nation.

"It is a great thing to love America—to love her for what she is and what she stands for—to kiss the silken folds of her national emblem, the stars and stripes, but it is an agonizing thing to despise Germans or Russians, or to love Negroes or Italians for political or selfish purposes."

"To glorify our system of government, our laws, and our Constitution with the statement that the world will never see its equal, is to admit at once your stupendous ignorance, and to qualify you immediately as a Fourth of July orator or as a mayor of Chicago. In the name of true patriotism you must modify your national esteem with a little mixture of international good will."

After several months of inactivity, rail shipments of baled hay and straw began to move from here again this week. While there seems to be a sufficient salable surplus of timothy on the farms in this locality, buyers declare that there is a scarcity of clover hay. Much of the hay, it is said, is still unbaled, with farmers hesitant about selling on account of relatively low prices. Baled straw is selling for from $6 to $7 per ton, with the best timothy selling for only $10.50. The oats straw this season is of a long grade containing but little chaffy material. The shipments from here were destined for Illinois markets.

Trucks in the vicinity, which in their recent frozen condition, vied with concrete for smoothness of riding, have become softened by several days of high temperature. A surface film of soft mud and water is making travel less agreeable and those who observed road conditions in the fall are expressing prospects of a repetition of last year's mud-bound roads.

NEMACHECK 'SORRY' TO QUIT COMMISSION

Chairman of State Highway Commission Addresses Visitors at Road School

Madison (AP)—Regret that through "force of circumstances" he had been forced to sever his connection with the work of the state highway department was expressed by J. T. Nemacheck, chairman of the highway commission, in opening the seventeenth annual road school. Mr. Nemacheck, who has resigned from the road body, effective Feb. 1, presided over the opening session and introduced Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman, who delivered the address of welcome.

The importance of good roads is realized, Mr. Nemacheck said when it is remembered that without them it would have been impossible for Wisconsin and the nation to attain their record for progress in the past generation.

The nation has invested annually more than $1,250,000,000 in highways for the past several years, he said, and has 2,005,000 miles of highways, of which 575,000 miles are surfaced.

Eighty percent of all the automobiles in the world are owned in the United States, the highway chairman said. "Motorized vehicles and good roads have revolutionized business methods, improved health conditions, shortened distances in time terms, and opened up country districts, making

"MAN, WOMAN AND SIN" HAS
WASHINGTON D. C. FOR ITS BACKGROUND

Interesting details of how Uncle Sam holds a job as city manager are contained in the trial scenes, prison episodes, and other details of John Gilbert's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, "Man, Woman and Sin," coming Tuesday and Wednesday to Fischers Appleton Theatre. In the new story, a romance of newspaper life filmed partly in Washington, the machinery by which Washington and the District of Columbia are governed is strikingly shown.

Washington is the only American city council, and without any city politics. It is governed by a federal commission, appointed by the President, and known as the District of Columbia Commission, and police, street department, fire department and all other details of operation of the city come under this body. Taxes are assessed, police heads appointed, and ordinances made by the commission.

These details come out in the scenes where Gilbert, as the reporter hero of the new picture, is arrested imprisoned and tried for murder, later to be proven innocent in the story. The courts in which he appears, while passing on Superior Court cases, are presided over by federal judges. Even police court cases are under federal judges through the operation of the city that is not a city. Civil service governs all general city offices, and the chief of police is an army officer, usually assigned to the task.

Gilbert's new vehicle is a striking story of a newspaper reporter's adventure in Washington, directed by Monta Bell, himself a former Washington newspaperman, who is also author of the story. The cast includes Jeanne Eagels, famous stage star of "Rain," in the leading feminine role as the society editor of the newspaper, and Marie McDermott, Hayden Stevenson, Cosmo Kyrle Bellwe, Charles K. French, Gladys Brockwell, and others of note.

PRODUCTION AT ELITE

Billie Dove is sold as a slave for a purse-full of gold in "The Love Mart," the George Fitzmaurice production for First National Pictures, now showing at the Elite Theatre. An ancient auction mart for slaves is shown in the film, the scene which is set in New Orleans in the early years of the Nineteenth Century. There, the beautiful heroine is subjected to the humiliation of being sold as a slave.

Gilbert Roland and Noah Beery, with Miss Dove, have the leading roles. Emilie Chantard, Armand Kelz, Boris, André Lacroix, Raymond Turner, Paul Vincent, Robert Schandl and others appear in the cast. The masculine leading role is portrayed by Roland, who had a similar characterization in "Rose of the Golden West," a former George Fitzmaurice production for First National Pictures. Noah Beery is the villainous Capt. Remy, a slave runner.

smooth the way of progress. Good roads offer fire protection, advance the cause of education, make library service available to remote sections, extend the trade territory of cities and towns, and form an important connecting link in national defense plans.

In order to maintain motor vehicle transportation efficiency, the state must continue to invest heavily in good roads, Mr. Nemacheck urged. "With additional millions of motor vehicles in use in the next few years, our annual expenditures must be increased and the legislature must in some way provide the necessary funds.

"If this is not done," he said, "very promptly the state's development will be hampered. Transportation conges-

WOULD MAKE PARK PART OF AIRPORT

Popularity of Aviation Would Reimburse City for Port,
MacCracken Says

The suggestion by William P. MacCracken, Jr., assistant secretary of war in charge of aeronautics, that cities building airports do so with the thought in mind that they should be known as "air parks," is a timely one for Appleton.

It is a well known fact that there are many people who go to airports for the purpose of seeing the planes arrive and depart. MacCracken's suggestion that cities build airports and other objects that go to make a park should be provided puts the airport in a class with other city parks and at the present time it is one of the most popular.

The cost to cities for building ports depends, first and foremost, on the land and size of the airport but whatever the size and cost, it is a fairly heavy burden on the larger cities of the country that they will pay for it. Besides in addition to having an airport during its operation is a right now, and in many places in the state is very heavily used, when only a slight time ago we supposed the facilities were adequate for a long time to come.

"We have gone at building highways with the same care that has made us the envy and admiration of all our sister states, but we have only made a beginning with what we must do. We must build more, better, and many sections of the state under highways. A thorough system of hard surfaced highways for Wisconsin means better health and better educational facilities for all the people of the commonwealth."

In a battle of fouls and free throws, Appleton high school basketball team entered the six-cornered tie for second place in the Fox River Valley conference Saturday night at Sheboygan by whipping the Sheboygan quint 21-16. The Orange is a half-game from Manitowoc in first place. Appleton scored seven free throws in sixteen tries, a poor average, and Sheboygan made eight in nineteen, just as poor.

Appleton led 8-4 at the quarter and at the half had increased its lead to 14-8. In the final period Sheboygan outscored the Orange, 8-7. Rafoth continued to show improved form as he did against Oshkosh and his free throw eye aided the Orange. He netted two ringers and five free tries in seven attempts. Berg, used at forward, also had two ringers and four free tries. Bowley and Schnier added one each. Bowley had a free try and Johnston another.

Rummelle, veteran center, led the chair attack with two baskets and three free tries and Larson and Webb each added a ringer. Larson accounted for two free throws. Webb one, Ackerman one and Ziskowski one.

DODGERS BOLSTER BY ADDING BATTERS

Uncle Robby Buys Stick-power for 1928 Brooklyn Team

New York.—Wilbert Robinson 61-year-old manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, hopes to have something besides a pitching staff to keep in the race for the 1928 National League pennant.

Rendered desperate by the important bats of his charges, Robbie reached into the minor leagues and grabbed Del Disonette, International league slugger, Harry Riconda of Milwaukee, and Al Tyson of Buffalo, to give his woefully infeld some much needed steadiness.

With Vance, Petty, Doak, Elliott, McWeeney, Ehrhardt and Clark to call upon, Robinson is assured of good pitching as any manager in the league will get. The first string catchers "Butch" Henline, Charlie Hargrave and Hank Deberry, Vance's sidekick, generally are rated as the best receiving corps in the circuit.

The outfield, too, seems to be pretty well taken care of by Hendrick, Max Carey, Arnold Stutz, Max West, a recruit from Waco, and Tyson, who has seen service with the New York Giants.

The starting infield probably will see either Bissonec or Babe Herman at first base, Jay Partridge at second, Bancroft at short, and Riconda, at third.

COMPLETE GRID CARD FOR BADGER SECONDS

Madison.—(A)—The 1928 schedule for the second football team of the University of Wisconsin was completed Saturday with the signing of games with two Wisconsin schools, making a five-game program, three at home and two away.

Two Big Ten second teams are engaged. The schedule follows:

Oct. 17—North Dakota State at Madison.

Oct. 29—Oshkosh Normal at Madison.

Oct. 27—Michigan seconds at Madison.

Nov. 3—Northwestern College at Watertown.

Nov. 10—Illinois seconds at Champaign.

COOKSON BOYS HIGH SCORERS AT WAYLAND

Frank and Al Cookson former Appleton high school star athletes continued their stellar work for the Wayland Academy basketball team Saturday afternoon when the Waylanders trimmed the Milwaukee University school at Beaver Dam, 37-16. Frank scored six baskets and two free throws and Al added three ringers for high men of their team.

Agree on This

All baseball experts are unanimous in the belief that any club to finish ahead of the New York Yankees this year will win the American League pennant.

The British government is testing a new emergency signal device which, it is contended, can give promptly the location of a sunken submarine.

Weber Knitting Mills basketball team pulled up a notch in the closely-contested battle for first place in the Appleton Industrial Commercial Basketball League Saturday evening at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, by defeating another of the strong title contenders, Kimberly-Clark's sharpshooting youngsters, down to a 26-19 defeat and a tie for fourth place. In the other evening contest the Kaukauna Y. M. C. A. team for its first win of the season and broke a tie for the loop cellar by miring the final score was 18-7. The result of the Weber-Kimberly was not so much of a surprise as to the score as the contest was expected to end with the loser winning four points of the winner.

The Weber-Kimberly game was well played and developed into a hard-fought battle with neither team having a decided advantage until late in the final quarter, when the Kimblys pulled too far ahead for a final rally of the losers to overcome. After the Kimblys had started with a 2-0 lead, the Weber boys tied the count and took a lead from which they were never headed, though the Kimberly boys always stayed just a single basket to the rear and at one time, after a successful free throw, a single point.

The score at the half was 10-8 for the Webbers and at the third quarter, 16-12. With the score 18-14, late in the final period, the winners spurred to run up a lead of 24-14, counting three baskets in succession, aided by a stallion offense. Then the losers spurred, scoring two baskets and a free try, but it was too late and the Webbers added another ringer before the whistle blew to change the score from 24-19 to 26-19.

A rushing defense by the Webbers that allowed the Kimberly boys few shots from their favorite spot, beyond midfloor, and the superior height added the winners, Gunderson and Versteegen, speedy forwards, featured both the offense and defense of the winners. Gunderson scored six ringers for high men of the game, and Versteegen and Furringer added three and Miron one. Horde played a good defensive game. For the winners Le May, the smallest man on the floor, had three ringers, Gossen two and a free throw, DuPont two, Vanderzander three free tries and Pocan one. From the field Webbers outscored their foes, 15-7, but they failed to score a single free try while Kimberly had five in eight tries.

A tight defense in the final half, aided by good shooting gave the Kawmen their 11-point win in the opener. The quarter ended 4-2 in their favor and the half, 8-5. In the final two quarters Co. D. was held to a single basket by Muenster, while the Kawmen stalked through the Guard defense for five ringers.

Shooting honors were evenly divided for the winners. Mereness, a new man, Verbaton, Kronforst and Wenzel, each having two ringers and Bissel another. For the losers Muenster had a basket and the only free try of the game and Ratzman and Green added baskets. Only six persons were called, five of which were on Kaukauna. In the other game Kimberly had one personal and the Webbers seven for an especially "clean" evening of 14 fouls in two games.

CORNERS CAGERS LOSE TO BLACK CREEK, 43-26

Bill Meltz's Twelve Corners cagers took a 43-26 drubbing from the Black Creek team in a game played Friday evening at the Corners. The game was closer than the score indicates, with one Creek cager scoring 26 of his team's points, with ten ringers and four free tries. The half ended 16-10 for the winners. The Corners men showed a good eye for the hoop, but the individual work of the Black Creek star was too much to overcome. There was plenty of fouling on both sides. William Pickett of Roosevelt junior high school, Appleton, refereed. A large crowd attended the battle.

Shoction will be entertained at the Corners next Friday night and a hard game is expected. On Friday, Jan. 20 the Xenia Kimberly-Clark Co. team plays at the Corners with a dance following.

DIEGEL, MEHLHORN TIE IN GOLF MEET

Stars Each Finish With 282 in Long Beach Open

Long Beach, Calif.—(A)—Leo Diegel, Penn. Country club professional, Monday was in possession of just one shot in the Long Beach Open golf tournament and the accompanying purse of $1,250. The first 18 holes saw him and Alan on the list although his 73 was two over par. He went on to the first round looking more like a second victim than a golfer. Diegel tried a short cut to the clubhouse through a heavy plate glass window. The ensuing crash and fall of glass resulted in cuts on both of Diegel's hands.

The next day—Saturday—saw New York golfer cut two strokes off par to 69 and a total of 142. That eliminated him to fourth place.

Diegel finished his morning round with a one stroke lead on "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, who, with nine holes left, had a 24.

Eight holes went off according to Mehlhorn and then, with the title, plus the winner's share of the $2,500 prize at stake, Diegel spurned an offer by Mehlhorn to bat "two bits" that he would miss—and did miss. Not real sure, a tie, incidentally, "Wild Bill" would miss the put.

Diegel's three day card showed 73, 69, 71, 69—282 and Mehlhorn's 70, 68, 71—211. They split first and second money, totaling $1,250.

George Von Elm of Los Angeles, took the low gross trophy for amateurs with 283.

MacDonald Smith, Long Island, N. Y., and Tommy Armour of Washington, D. C., made up another tie, this one for 3rd place with a 286.

WALSH GETS $30

Diegel and Mehlhorn each received $25, Mac Smith and Armour each $23.50, Horton Smith $150, Burke $125, and others $50 apiece down through the score sheet to and including John Black, Frank Walsh, Larry Nabholz, Al Esomosa, Hilt Martin, Joe Cohen, and Dudley Jack Tarrant and Walter Hargrave.

Al Esomosa, Joe Tarnesa and Bobby Cruickshank split $50 three ways.

DOUBLE WINDUP MAT MATCH FOR JAN. 29

A double windup wrestling match will be held at Stephenville auditorium on Tuesday, Jan. 24, when Conroy "Tuffboy" Redel of Little Chute and Kid Frenchy of Appleton meet in one battle and Earl Otto of Appleton and Frank Rastler will clash in the other. Redel, 167 pounds and Frenchy, 167, wrestled to a 25-minute time limit draw earlier in the month and the fans demanded a rematch with a longer time limit. The new match will be the best two of three falls, no time limit.

Rastler is said to be one of the best middleweights in Wisconsin and he has met such men as Matt Matsuda, the Jap and Jimmy Graham of Cranston. He was wrestling for about 12 years. Otto, in his last match, took two straight falls in 25 and 21 minutes from Gale McAuley, Oshkosh's pride and joy. There also will be two tag matches. Ed Otto of Appleton is the promoter.

JACK LOCKWILL'S FIGHTING BLOOD

The battle between Hargon and Lockwill was different. In less than a minute, Hargon demonstrated that he was a skillful boxer with a wallop. Jack, over-confident, and a bit careless, was floored by a blow to the chin. He sprang up, and ripped into Hargon. It was a fight the witnesses never forgot. There was a sudden cry: "Fire! The barn's afire!"

The haymow had caught in some way from one of the Japanese lanterns. The blaze leaped up and spread, fanned by a draft from the open doors. The fighters fought on.

Willie Darling, suddenly panic-stricken, was swept out of the barn in the swirling rush of fleeing boys. "Where's Jack?" he cried. Neither fighter had come out!

HEINEMANN DEFENDS ACTION OF SENDING BOY TO REFORMATORY

"Every Other Means Had Failed" Jurist Says Answering Womans Charge

Believing that members of Appleton Womans club and others who heard Mrs. Mary Peckham Gross, Milwaukee, say that Judge Fred V. Heinemann of Outagamie county juvenile court had "established a state record by sending a 7-year-old boy to the state industrial school" are entitled to an explanation of why the sentence was imposed, the judge issued a statement Saturday concerning the case.

After Mrs. Gross impressed upon her audience the tender age of the boy sent to the industrial school, she somewhat modified her arraignment by saying that "no fault can be placed with the judge for taking this action."

He did the only thing he could do under the circumstances," she said. Mrs. Gross laid the blame on the state system of treating juvenile cases of this kind.

BOUGHT COWBOY SUIT
"Every corrective means which we have at our disposal was tried on this boy before I finally committed him to the Waukesha school and I am convinced that several years at that institution will help him more than if we could have found someone willing to adopt him," Judge Heinemann said.

The boy was taken into court the first time when he was slightly over seven-years-old. At that time he confessed to breaking into a local garage three times and stealing money from $1 to $10. He used the money to buy cowboy and policemen suits.

"The first time the case was brought to my attention the father told me he had used every method he knew of to punish the boy for his insubordination," Judge Heinemann said.

"The youngster's mother was sickly and when she tried to make him behave he would strike or kick her and run out of the house," the father said. He often stayed away from home the entire night and he seldom came home before 11 or 12 o'clock.

PLACED ON PAROLE
"I placed the boy on parole to his father and the youngster then started 'skipping' school; he was in the first grade. A month or so after I had paroled him he broke into an electric shop and stole considerable money. He took a street car to Waverly beach where he spent all the money he had stolen from the electric shop. Again he was brought into court and yet I hesitated to send him away. His father asked us to give him another chance and this time I paroled him to George T. Prim, chief of police. The boy was supposed to report to the chief each week.

"He failed to do so, however, and when a number of complaints were received at the police station, that someone was stealing money from milk bottles, police investigated and the youngster was found to be the offender. This time his parents came to me and asked that I send the youth away and I did so."

"However, I made a recommendation that after a few years he be paroled and given another chance to go straight."

SCHOOL A GOOD ONE
"I am convinced that several years at Waukesha will be a big benefit to this boy. He will receive regular school work he will be taught to do other work and he will have sufficient time for recreation and play," the judge said.

Judge Heinemann declared that he never sent an Outagamie-co boy to a state institution until the institution had been thoroughly investigated either by himself or one of the county judges who are his assistants. He was convinced that the Waukesha school was the equal of any boy's private school and he did not send them there until every other means had been tried.

"I will welcome suggestions from people who are interested in child welfare," Judge Heinemann said. "This court faces the juvenile prob-

33 SCHOOLS TO EXHIBIT AT MID-WINTER FAIR

Thirty-three rural schools in the towns of Grand Chute, Kaukauna, Buchanan, Greenville, Freedom and Vandenbrook will prepare exhibits of school work and farm products to be shown at the Kaukauna Mid Winter fair Feb. 16 and 17, according to A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools. Schools in the district in which these towns are located did not hold a full festival as did other districts in the county, Mr. Meating said.

BARBER IS FREED OF WEDDING TIES

Judge Berg Annuls Marriage
Because Wife Had Another Husband

The marriage of Wilbert J. Driessen, 25, Little Chute barber, and Olive Betram-Carriveau-Driessen, Oshkosh, was annulled by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Friday when the defendant charged that his wife had been married previously but was not divorced. Mrs. Driessen did not appear in court to contest the suit.

The couple were married at Little Chute on July 5, 1927, according to Driessen's claim. Driessen said his wife had told him her name was Miss Olive Betram. Since that time, he alleged, he found that she had previously married Leo Carriveau of Two Rivers in June, 1925. Carriveau now lives in Chicago, Driessen said.

I am alone and I am always anxious to hold consultations with other men and women who are interested in the work. I invite constructive criticism of my efforts because I am seeking to do my best for the children of this country."

Your Question And Its Answer

By J. A. PANNECK, D. C.
Palmer Chiropractor

QUESTION: I am bothered with headaches, stomach and liver trouble for the last two years, and gradually getting worse.

Doctored with all other methods with no results. I have decided to take Chiropractic adjustments from you. Please explain. -H.S.

ANSWER: Chiropractic teaches that your body is likened to a great machine occupied by a number of perfectly constructed (organs) each having a specific work to do: back of this the cerebral spinal nervous system which furnishes the power to enable them to do their work. If these machines or organs are not doing their work properly, there is a pressure somewhere along the spinal column interfering with function from brain, dynamo, or seat of life, going to these machines or organs.

Chiropractic teaches that the life principle, or the something we Chiropractors call Innate Intelligence builds the body from a parent cell into an adult organism and that thru all the circling years of life this something coordinates the physical functions, heals the wounds of the body, mends its breaks, regulates its temperature, and performs the miracle of changing common food into living flesh and blood.

Chiropractic teaches that disease is lack of normal function or functions of one or more of the tissue of the body; health is complete normal function of all tissue of the body—co-ordination between the brain and tissue, in other words, full impulsion of all tissue by means of their respective nerve feeders. It is in answer to this question that we find the fundamental difference between chiropractic and all other professions engaged in getting the sick people well.
